TOASTMASTERS TV!!

Coming to a screen near you soon, The Speaker!!

Well, almost. The British Broadcasting Corporation is scheduled to begin transmitting soon an eight-part 'reality television' series following the experiences of young people learning how to speak effectively and improve their chances of success at school and in later life.

Sean Kennedy, a committed Toastmaster from Dublin and a former president of London Communicators, has been involved as a consultant in the programme from the very beginning and is keen to spread the word not only about the project itself but how it could be used to raise the profile of Toastmasters International in District 71.

Full details can be found in a message from District 71 Governor Gary Sander on the District 71 club's Public Relations Vice President...

Conference News

The Difference will amaze you

Would you like to speak in public with confidence? Would you like to express your opinion with conviction? Would you like to be able to use props for that all important presentation?

We can help you improve your abilities in all of these areas. Come along and see for yourself how a Toastmasters Club can help by giving you the opportunity to hone the skills you already have or learn new ones in a friendly, welcoming and very supportive environment. We all have our own pace of learning and Toastmasters can help you develop to your full potential.

Welcome

WELCOME TO ENGINEERS TOASTMASTERS

Last season we set up Engineers on the D71.org website. We hope you will enjoy using this site and find the rich resources of the Knowledge Base, where you can find help on almost every aspect of Toastmasters, especially helpful.

The club is open to all comers and especially welcomes Engineers wishing to improve their speaking skills in a supportive environment.

Why don't you come along and experience a meeting yourself.

Kieran Timmons President ETM

New year...new year resolutions

Wishing you season's greetings and a very happy New Year to you.

So with every new year, we make new year resolutions.
So what about polishing off your speaking skills; or maybe you would like to start to develop your confidence when speaking in front of small crowd or a large audience

Using the Engineers D71.org website

The screenshot shows a Windows Internet Explorer browser window displaying the Engineers D71.org website. The main page is titled "Engineers Toastmasters" and features a navigation menu on the left. A smaller, overlaid window shows a form titled "Which workbook is this speech from?". The form has two sections: "Select:" with a dropdown menu set to "Competent Communication Manual" and a "Select" button; and "Start another workbook:" with a dropdown menu set to "The Entertaining Speaker" and a "Start another workbook" button. Two callout boxes provide instructions: one points to the "Select:" dropdown and says "either select the current workbook", and the other points to the "Start another workbook:" dropdown and says "or select a new workbook, e.g. The Entertaining Speaker from the advanced speaker range".

Using the Engineers D71.org website

at any point if you get lost on the d71 website and need to return to the Engineers Toastmasters section, click on 'Select a Club' from the 'Club Data' menu

The website interface includes a navigation bar with the following links: Club Data, Messages, Profile, and Log out. A dropdown menu is open under Club Data, listing the following options: Club Forum, User List, Portrait Gallery, Speeches, Member Charts, Photo Album, Club Officers, Club Website, Club Mail, Neighbouring Clubs, and Select a Club. The Select a Club option is highlighted with a green border.

The background of the website shows a table with columns for dates and times, and a sidebar with a list of user avatars. The Toastmasters International logo is visible in the top right corner.
